YOUTH PLAN:

Voice, Leadership, Action

Rolling Suite of Actions

Overview of the Rolling Suite of Actions

To achieve the aims of the Youth Plan, actions will be designed and undertaken by government agencies, youth sector, and community sector partners between 2023 and 2028. The design and delivery of actions should specifically involve young people from the priority cohorts. Emphasis will also be placed on working alongside young people, and within whānau and communities.

The rolling suite of actions under the Youth Plan do not reflect all the work underway across government or the wider sector under the focus areas of voice and leadership. Rather, actions included in the Youth Plan are just one part of realising the overarching vision of the Child and Youth Wellbeing Strategy (CYWS). All named actions are intended to be complemented by other work happening across government, the youth sector, in communities, and beyond.

Actions Criteria

Youth Plan actions work towards:

- listening to, valuing, and embedding the voices and perspectives of young people in decision-making at all levels;
- · uplifting the mana of young people; and
- enabling young people to lead their own lives, have their identities seen, valued and respected, and have increasing influence in their communities and over government policy.

Youth Plan actions should:

- include whai wāhitanga of young people in the design and/or delivery of actions;
- follow Mana Taiohi when engaging with young people;
- be delivered through collaboration between government agencies and/or with youth sector partners, communities, whānau, and young people themselves; and
- support the wider wellbeing aims of the CYWS.

Youth Plan actions can:

- set out their own timeframes, whether they are short (six to twelve months), medium (one to two years), or long term (three to five years);
- have a focus on one or more priority cohort (while acknowledging the intersectionality of young people's identities); and
- be added into the suite of actions on an ongoing basis.

Youth Plan actions will:

be reviewed and reported on annually.

Tools in our kete for developing Youth Plan actions

The Youth Plan strategic framework document includes four key tools to help agencies and others design and implement Youth Plan actions. These are:

- Mana Taiohi;
- Engagement Continuum;
- · Age Range Guidelines; and
- Priority Cohorts.

Further links to resources and guidance can be found on the Ministry of Youth Development (MYD) — Te Manatū Whakahiato Taiohi website including relevant literature reviews and engagement summaries that can be used to identify opportunities for new actions: https://www.myd.govt.nz/young-people/youth-plan/youth-plan.html.

The Youth Plan Cross-Agency Working Group is another resource that agencies, organisations, and others can engage with to help develop, test, and collaborate on actions. To attend a hui or engage with the group, contact MYD through the MYD website.

Initial Set of Actions

The Refreshed Youth Plan has launched with a select number of initial actions, which will be built on and added to as new actions are developed and initial actions are expanded. Initial actions are intended as stepping stones to build towards the aspirations of the Youth Plan. While initial actions are led by a smaller set of government agencies and crown entities, all government agencies are encouraged to consider what actions they could contribute to giving effect to the Youth Plan.

Additional actions will be developed by government agencies and others on an ongoing basis. This dynamic approach to the development of new actions and expansion of initial actions will enable actions to be responsive to existing and emerging needs of young people across Aotearoa New Zealand.

| Name of Action:                          | Continuation of The Hive youth voice initiative   |
|--|---|
| Description of Action:                   | The Hive facilitates a meaningful two-way communication channel between young people and government. This action is delivered through a partnership between MYD and Curative NZ.  |
|  | Young people from across Aotearoa New Zealand will continue to be recruited to be a part of the Hive, as 'Hivers' for one-year tenures or 'seasons'. Approximately 15 young people are recruited into each cohort from a diversity of backgrounds, locations, and lived experience. Each cohort works to strengthen the Hive, online and in their community, by co-designing experiences and content for other young people to participate in. Each cohort is actively supported by the previous year's group, and at times, all seasons of the Hivers are engaged in larger scale opportunities. |
|  | Learning opportunities, pastoral care, and wrap-around support is provided throughout the year by Curative NZ. This includes fortnightly online hui, and multiple moments to gather and work together in person. During each year, the Hive provides development and capacity-building opportunities for Hivers, facilitates broad youth engagement with government agencies on policy projects, and provides snackable, educational content to help young people better understand Aotearoa New Zealand's political system and how they can meaningfully have their voices heard.                |
| Connection to theVision of the Youth | ► The whai wāhitanga of young people is recognised and valued throughopportunities for them to contribute their voices and leadership.  |
| Plan:                                    | ▶ Whai wāhitanga of young people is valued by all government agencies.  |
|  | ▶ The voices of young people are actively heard, captured, and acted on as part of government action.   |
|  | ► The voices of the priority groups are amplified within government.  |
| Co-Leads:                                | Curative NZ and MYD.  |
| Timeframe:                               | 2023-2025.  |
| Priority Cohorts:                        | All seven priority cohorts.   |
| Age range:                               | 16-24 years.  |
| Key deliverables:                        | Recruitment of a diverse group of young people to become Hivers and a Tuakana-Teina hui with the previous cohort.   |
|  | Capacity-building and development of 12-15 young people as a design cohort each year.   |
|  | Programme of work designed with each cohort that responds to their skills, interests, and the needs of young people, created through a process of:  |
|  | <ul> <li>listening (insight gathering);</li> <li>truth-sharing (reporting findings); and</li> <li>and activating (showing young people how to participate in political processes).</li> </ul>   |
|  | Strong community relationships, with young people and key decision-makers, positioning the Hive as a trusted destination for young people to have their say on issues of importance, and for decision-makers to listen to what young people need.   |
|  | Support of multiple government projects or actions as a vehicle for youth voice, participation, and input annually, driven either by partnerships with government agencies or self-initiated by the Hivers based on youth needs.  |
|  | Production of engaging educational content that is easily shareable in social media environments to help young people better understand how government works, and how they can participate and have their voices heard.   |

| Name of Action:                                   | Review and realisation of a youth-centric Youth Health and Wellbeing Survey  |
| Description of Action:                            | Uplifting youth voice in the next iteration of the Youth Health and Wellbeing Survey by engaging with young people for consultation and sense-making during the reviewing, planning, data collection, and reporting phases of research.  |
