

Emma Grace Yule

“I applied to be the Youth MP for Christchurch East because I am passionate about politics and learning more about the political system because I want to be in politics one day. I also did it to be a voice for Māori in that space and showing people how to use their voice in a positive way to create change. I am super passionate about Māori, women, and queer rights and looking after people who have been discriminated against and marginalised. The criminal justice system is something I am super passionate about specifically looking after and rehabilitating rangatahi in the system. I am also an environmentalist and care deeply about the whenua we live on. Overall, I applied because I care for people and making sure that everyone gets what they need to thrive.”
