

Harriet McLauchlan

“I applied to be a Youth MP as I am deeply passionate about ensuring the voices of youth within my region are heard loud and clear. I believe politics can be a powerful tool for positive change. I want to work in politics in the future, and I’m passionate about being part of the solution. I want to bring my leadership skills, understanding of youth, and commitment to my community to Parliament, where I can ensure young people like me have the platform we deserve. It’s time we stop being an afterthought and become the change-makers we know we can be.”
