

Lucy Kilgour

“I am deeply passionate about civics education and youth engagement with parliament and policy-making. I believe that when everyone understands decision-making and can engage with leaders, society is more harmonious and able to advance further. I was fortunate to act on my passion during high school through debating, mooted and ethics. Now, I am studying Law and Commerce at the University of Auckland, where I continue to serve my community and broaden my knowledge of democracy in New Zealand. I look forward to meeting everyone at Youth Parliament and sharing my passion on a larger scale.”
