

Lucy Trenberth

“I applied to be a Youth MP for 2025 to advocate for youth voices, especially as they often go unheard in surveys and decision-making. As a Year 12 student at Queen Margaret College, I aim to represent and amplify the concerns of young people. I have seen firsthand the social challenges in Lower Hutt, particularly food insecurity and homelessness, through my community work with the Salvation Army. This has inspired me to pursue policies addressing basic needs, so young people can achieve better outcomes. I am particularly passionate about addressing issues like drugs, alcohol, and safety, which continue to affect youth in the Hutt Valley. By connecting young people to mentors, providing early intervention, and promoting education, I believe in helping them rise above their circumstances. I would also love to see how Parliament works and the behind the scenes of policy-making.”
