“I was inspired about the activity of Carlos Cheung in our community and the effect it had, and wanted to see that same change within our youth and the issues they want to address but never felt that they had a voice to do it. Some of the biggest issues that are important to me is the vaping and substance abuse problems within schools, violence and physical altercations within the community and especially youth in schools, the economical struggles some families go through, which leads to child poverty where there is then a lack of opportunity and fulfilment of basic needs. Some of my personal extracurriculars and interests are playing hockey, debating, robotics, and volunteering so if you see me around make sure you hello.”
