“I applied to be a Youth member of Parliament because I’m passionate about making a real difference in my community and ensuring that the voices of young people, especially those from places like Tokoroa, are heard loud and clear. I believe our generation has powerful ideas and unique perspectives that deserve a place in the national conversation. Through initiatives like my school’s breakfast club and other leadership roles, I’ve already seen how small actions can create big change. Becoming a Youth MP is a chance for me to represent rangatahi, speak up on the issues that matter most like mental health, education, and opportunity and to learn more about how our political system works so I can be an even stronger advocate for our future.”
