“I applied to be a Youth Press Gallery member because I believe in the power of media to inspire change. Through this opportunity, I hope to learn about the role of the Press Gallery in Parliament, gain valuable journalistic skills, and, most importantly, help uplift the voices of other young New Zealanders who want to be heard on the issues that matter the most to them. I also applied to be a Youth Press Gallery member as I would love to use the role to make politics and government systems more understandable for the wider public – particularly for young people. As someone deeply involved in community service, I want to bring the spotlight to youth voices who are already making a difference in their communities, to hopefully empower more young people to realise that their voices matter too.”
