

Korus MacDonald

“I have always carried a deep passion for both politics and journalism, both key to stimulating the potential for change on a societal scale. The Youth Press Gallery appears to be the perfect opportunity for enhancing these passions, gaining hands-on experience from professionals within the industry, as well as empowering genuine engagement with like-minded rangatahi. The vital role of the Press Gallery within our democratic Parliament is a key interest of mine, and it's what has ultimately inspired me to apply. I'm excited for the unique insights, learning experiences, and growth this opportunity will bring.”
